Women’s Political Machinery:
Challenges of Inequality and Violence Against Women

Dr. Sima Samar
Harvard Kennedy School – Carr Center Fellow, first Minister of Women’s Affairs in Afghanistan

Dr. Mona Tajali
Associate Professor of International Relations and Women’s Studies – Agnes Scott College (USA)

Dr. Vrinda Narain
Associate Professor, Faculty of Law – McGill University (Canada)

Dr. Rashida Manjoo
Professor Emeritus – University of Cape Town – Department of Public Law (South Africa)

Dr. Sri Wiyanti Eddyono
Professor and Director of Master Program – Universitas Gadjah Mada (Indonesia)

Tuesday, November 15
9:30 am EST
(via Zoom)
https://harvard.zoom.us/j/93218126655?pwd=d-DI0bThyZGNUNmVDY2hXQ0xMTU1dz09

A panel discussion examining women’s political machinery in Muslim contexts

This panel, organized by Women Living Under Muslim Laws (WLUM), hosted by the Harvard Kennedy School – Middle East Initiative and Journal of Middle Eastern Politics & Policy (JMEPP), is revisiting various forms of resistance to empower women’s machinery in Muslim contexts where, despite much advancement, women continue to face serious gender-based violence and discrimination justified in the name of religion and traditions, particularly in the political and public sphere. The discussion will predominately focus on the following contexts: Afghanistan, Indonesia, Iran, Turkey.